Extend BART around Bay, Holsinger says

By KAREN PETTERSON

BART? In San Mateo County?

The possibility has been raised again, this time surfacing as a volatile campaign issue in the hotly contested 11th District congressional race.

Democratic candidate Joe Holsinger, former aide to slain Congressman Leo Ryan, said Monday that he and Ryan had discussed the prospect with BART officials "quietly" for about a year.

Holsinger is now advocating the extension of BART from San Francsisco along the Southern Pacific right-of-way to San Jose. Under Holsinger's plan, an additional extension would connect the San Jose terminus with the end of the existing BART line in Fremont, providing a complete loop around the Bay.

The proposal has met with harsh criticism from Holsinger's opponent, Republican county Supervisor Bill Royer, who sits on the board of the San Mateo County Transit District and the regional Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

"It's not economically feasible nor politically practical," Royer declared. He estimated that the BART extension would cost between $2.5 billion and $3 billion, based on $60-80 million per mile.

Holsinger's proposal includes a push for legislation which would free federal highway transportation funds for mass transit projects.

Similar legislation was proposed during the last session of Congress, according to Holsinger, but was blocked by the oil companies.

"The oil companies want more highways," he said. "They want the American people to use more gas, in spite of their cries of a fuel shortage."

Holsinger sees the BART alternative as the solution to the energy crunch and the transportation problem.

"A completely different way of life is possible with 24-hour rapid transit service," he said, adding that the BART service would increase the use of local transit services such as SamTrans between neighborhood locations and the BART stations.

The service would also link the three Bay Area airports, Holsinger said, enabling more regional service and easing traffic congestion.

He also recommends the addition of the ½ percent sales tax currently charged in the other BART counties to augment the federal funding.

Royer contends, however, that even if federal funds are made available for such projects, local governments would be forced to pick up 20 percent of the cost.

"Local governments don't have enough funds to continue existing programs," Royer said, "let alone pick up local operating expenses of a regional transit system."

A major stumbling block in the talks with BART officials has been the existing BART counties' demands that San Mateo buy into the system by picking up a portion of the existing BART indebtedness, according to Holsinger.

He strongly opposes any such buy-in.

"We are not going to pay for mistakes already made and defects in the system, some of which still exist," he said.

Holsinger also made it clear that he would oppose any extension of the BART line through Daly City, even though that city has a BART station already.

His plan calls for a connection to be constructed between a downtown San Francisco station, probably Montgomery Street, and the existing Southern Pacific depot at Fourth and Townsend. The route would then continue along the railroad's right-of-way to San Jose.

There have been negotiations between BART and SP for the right-of-way near the Daly City station as a holding yard for the Daly City trains. However, Holsinger does not advocate any extension of passenger service through Daly City.

With the extension of BART, Holsinger said, Southern Pacific would be free to abandon its commuter service, something the railroad has been trying to do for some time.

Royer said that the replacement of SP passenger service with BART is merely an expensive duplication of the existing service.

He pointed out that MTC had done two feasiblity studies of the alternatives for transit systems on the Peninsula.

"The SP service is adequate," he said. MTC approved the railroad as the most suitable alternative for serving the suburban areas, he said, and noted that the current system was only operating at 55 to 60 percent of capacity.

The thrust for the tranportation commission is to increase ridership on the existing service, he said. That has been done through rider subsidy projects financed by SamTrans.

"SamTrans currently subsidizes train passengers 30 cents per ride," Royer said. "As a result, ridership has increased."

Royer also ripped Holsinger's proposal to obtain federal highway funds for the transit service.

"Look at all the problems we've had trying to improve the Highway 92/Bayshore Freeway interchange," he said. "Now he (Holsinger) wants to take the money away from highway projects and funnel it somewhere else.

"We have to realize that we can't do both. Our highway system has to be kept intact."

Royer also pointed out that the Carter administration had recently cut out $200 million in capital improvement funds which had been earmarked for vehicle purchases by local transit districts.

The existing service, with certain improvements, is, according to Royer, "a very viable, suitable alternative for the next 20 years — and maybe longer."

In any event, a BART extension into San Mateo County would have to be approved by the voters, a provision included in the legislation that set up the local transit district in 1974. It would require a referendum be proposed by the Board of Supervisors.

"It might not be a very popular idea right now," Holsinger admitted, "but it is one worth looking into. It offers a solution to the energy and transportation problems we are facing."

However, as in any campaign issue, politics is not far from the heart of the matter.

In advocating the extension of BART, and along with it the abandonment by SP of its commuter service, Holsinger finds himself in direct opposition to Assemblyman Louis Papan, D-Daly City.

Papan's assembly subcommittee studied the 1975 SP request to raise fares, which was shown to be a ploy on the part of the railroad to ease its way out of the passenger train business.

According to findings of the subcommittee, the railroad had planned to raise the rates to force a drop in ridership, which it could then use as a basis for abandoning the service.

Papan sponsored legislation, signed by Gov. Brown in 1977, that allowed a rider subsidy for commuter trains. The SamTrans subsidy has been in effect ever since.

During the campaign leading up to the March 6 election in the 11th District race to succeed Ryan, Papan supported Democratic attorney George Corey.

Colma recall notices go to 3 councilmen

The three Colma City Council members who were hissed and booed when they accepted Police Chief Jim Dorris' resignation are the target of a recall movement.

Notices of intent to recall Mayor Raymond Ottoboni and Councilmen Eugene Daneluz and Fred Garbini were sent by certified mail to those council members Saturday. Monday night, Ottoboni and Daneluz acknowledged they had received the notices.

Ray Lencioni, Dorris, Dorris' wife and his daughter signed all three notices of intent. V.M. Kruljac signed Daneluz's and Ottoboni's notices. Lance W. Prestidge Jr. was the fifth person to sign Garbini's notice.

According to County Clerk Marvin Church, the recall proponents must gather the signatures of 30 percent of Colma's 174 registered voters — 52 signatures — to force a recall election.

The reasons given for trying to unseat the three council members are identical in the notices of intent. They refer to the recent meetings at which the three council members accepted, without question, the chief's resignation.

The 50 members of the audience, most of them Colma businessmen, pleaded with the council to discuss Dorris' reasons for resigning and to make him a better offer.

At the time, Dorris said he was willing to reconsider his resignation.

In each notice, recall supporters charge that "... this public official is no longer representing the voters and the citizens of the Town of Colma but is, instead, acting in his own self-interest in the discharge of his duties as a councilman of the Town of Colma, California. The most recent example of the failure of this councilman to represent the interests of the voters and the citizens of the Town of Colma occurred with the acceptance of the resignation of the chief of police of the Town of Colma.

"Notwithstanding the fact that all of the voters appearing at two successive special meetings of the Town Council opposed such action, the above named member of the Town Council voted to accept the resignation of the chief of police, acting in complete and utter disregard of the wishes of the voters and citizens of the Town of Colma."

The notices also charge that the three individual council members held special meetings on the police chief's resignation with "virtually no notice to the public and, at such meetings, refused to explain to the voters present the reasons for his action."

Ottoboni, Daneluz and Garbini's replies to those charges will be printed, by law, on any recall petitions that are circulated.

However, the three councilmen issued a joint statement Monday night that seemed to anticipate the charges.

In that statement, they say, "Mr. Dorris submitted a letter of resignation requesting that the council please accept his resignation effective March 15, 1979. He did not state that he would be willing to negotiate or even consider remaining on as chief of police.

"We have held two council meetings since Mr. Dorris submitted his letter of resignation and have listened to several people comment that his resignation should not be accepted. Mr. Dorris was present at one of the meetings and did not show any indication of wanting to recind (sic) or amend his letter."

The councilmen's joint statement also says Dorris told Councilmen Daneluz and Garbini that his new job with San Francisco State University "was a chance for advancement which would not be possible here."

After reading in a newspaper that Dorris already had begun his new job, the councilmen said, "... we felt the only way to vote on this matter was to accept Mr. Dorris's (sic) resignation and give him the opportunity for future advancement."

In the statement, the three councilmen also remark that Dorris was paid $3,000 for 213 hours of overtime which they said some persons at a public hearing seemed to believe he was providing at no charge.

DC council clears last obstacle to parks

By TERRY DAVENPORT
Post Staff Writer

Wide open spaces were on Daly City city councilmen's minds Monday night as they cleared the way for construction of two city parks and blocked a property owner's plan to erect a commercial building with no off-street parking.

Councilmenseemed to sigh with relief as they accepted a deed for the last property on the site of Lincoln Park in Daly City's Crocker neighborhood — six years after the city started the project.

City Manager David Rowe said Daly City has spent more than $1.5 million acquiring land for the park, which will be bounded by Brunswick, Templeton, Winchester and Acton streets.

Much of delay in clearing the land for the park has resulted from the time-consuming process of selling individual homes and waiting for the new owners to remove them from the premises.

To speed the project the council rejected bids on houses at 941 and 985 Brunswick St. and voted 4-1 Monday to demolish the houses.

Councilman James Tucker called the bids of $250 and $300 received for the homes "ridiculously low."

Voting against destruction of the houses was Councilman Anthony Giammona, who pointed out the city would save the $1,800 to $2,000 cost of demolishing each house if it sold the homes.

The council set an April 23 deadline for removal of a house at 201 Templeton St. which owner Alva Anderson has been attempting to move for several months. Anderson said he expects to have permission soon from San Francisco to move the house to that city.

The owner of the only other house remaining on the park site, at 973 Brunswick, reported he plans to move it April 4.

Acting against the city staff's advice, the council voted unanimously to hire KCA Engineers, Inc. of San Francisco, supported by Abergast, Newton and Griffith of Berkeley, to do the final design for another park in Daly City's Blossom Valley neighborhood.

After interviewing seven firms competing for the contract, a committee of three city officials had recommended the highest bidder, Carter, Hull, Nicheta, McCulley and Baxter Associates of San Francisco, supported by Wilsey and Ham of Foster city.

The CHNMB bid was $29,000. KCA's was $26,000 to $32,000, but the staff said KCA could do the job for the lower figure.

In nominating KCA, Councilman William Schumacher said KCA is familiar with the site, having done preliminary project plans.

Councilmen also disagreed with the city staff's recommendation to grant a variance that would have allowed Sam Leonetti of San Francisco to erect a commercial building adjacent to the Cow Palace without the usual off-street parking.

Director of Community Development Don Fleming explained that the lot on the south side of Geneva Avenue is so narrow that cars parked at that location would be forced to back out into heavy, oncoming traffic.

At the council's direction, the city staff surveyed on-street parking in the area last week and concluded the vicinity is crowded with vehicles.

When councilmen suggested including a turnaround for cars on the property, the applicant's representative, Robert Crosby, said it would be difficult for cars to turn around on a narrow lot.

Despite pleas from Bayshore resident William Behnken that the council should allow the parking variance, the council tabled the matter for two weeks.

Councilman Albert Teglia said he is not convinced it would be impossible for cars to turn around on the lot and wants to discuss the project with the city's traffic engineer.

Other business:

BART — The council unanimously endorsed Assembly Bill 111, introduced by Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-Daly City), which would require the Bay Area Rapid Transit District to have Daly City and San Mateo County approval before building a turnaround or storage facility in Daly City.

LIBRARY REP — The council elected Library Board Chairman Michael Cooney as the city's representative on the Peninsula Library System Advisory Board.

PLANNER — Mayor Victor Kyriakis introduced the city's new planner, Robert Vasquez, and his wife.

Colma PD reserves can't go solo

Colma's reserve officers are upset about the City Council's decision Monday night to eliminate their power to ride solo in police cars while patrolling the city.

One reserve officer, J. Wayne Johnson, estimated that the Colma will lose at least 200 hours of free patrol time each month as a result of the council's unanimous vote to require the 10 unpaid reserve officers to ride along with regular police officers.

"I feel that the business people and the residents in the area are basically being given an injustice. They're getting a lower class of police services than what they had before," said Johnson, who has worked more than 2,000 volunteer hours as a reserve officer since he joined the Colma force in July 1976.

Colma requires its reserve officers to complete 225 hours of classroom training and 200 hours of in-service training, then work 20 hours per month and attend training sessions totalling at least six hours each month — all at no pay.

The reserves were started by Jim Dorris shortly after he became Colma's police chief in July 1976.

Johnson pointed out that police epartments in Millbrae, Burlingame, San Mateo, Broadmoor, San Bruno and the sheriff's office in Redwood City allow their reserve officers to patrol by themselves in cars.

Like other reserve officers, Johnson said he believes the council's action is related to the recent controversy over Dorris' departure.

Reserve Officer Mark Fontana said the decision not to allow the reserves to ride solo is "strictly a political thing. The reserves backed the chief (Dorris) and the council wants a clean slate."

When they voted on the new policy, councilmen noted the city will save the cost of gas and car insurance Colma had paid for its reserves in the past.

But Fontana noted, "This town has $4 million in the bank. To hire a man to do what we (the reserves) do would cost them $30,000 to $40,000 per year."

He said, "It's a slap in the face to all the guys who put in time for the city."

Reserve Officer Mary Glass said the council's decision was "really surprising" to her. "It goes to show that they don't have to much trust in their reserve officers."

Daneluz is mayor

Dollosso wins top Colma police post

Colma got a new police chief and a different mayor Monday night during a special meeting of the Colma City Council dominated by complaints that too many condominiums are being built along the Colma-South San Francisco border.

Family and friends beamed and applauded when Art Dollosso, 31, who has been acting police chief since Jim Dorris left the job March 12, was appointed chief.

Councilman Fred Garbini nominated Dollosso after pointing out that he has accumulated 124 college credits.

"I believe formerly we were asking for personnel with 30 college units," Garbini said.

One of the two council members who wanted Dorris to stay on, Paul Howe, suggested putting Dollosso on probation for a year.

Garbini rejected that suggestion, saying that the police chief is always on probation because he serves at the will of the council.

Following an executive session, the council announced that Dollosso will be paid $1,862 per month — $200 more per month than Dorris made.

The council explained that Dollosso, who lives in Burlingame, will not be living in the mobile home adjacent to City Hall that Dorris was given to live in at no cost.

Dollosso's previous salary was $1,583 per month.

He was chosen with a unanimous vote of the council and his appointment took effect immediately.

Eugene Daneluz was elected mayor for the coming year and Fred Garbini was chosen vice-mayor.

The testiest part of the meeting came when three South San Francisco residents and a planner representing that city urged the council to deny a variance sought by Leo Fratessa that would allow him to build four condominium units on a 60-by-76-foot lot on Hillside Boulevard near the South San Francisco border.

Daneluz fumed that the county took the rest of the property when it enlarged Hillside Boulevard last year — violating an agreement it had with Colma under which it promised not to take any land.

City Attorney Robert Cornell explained that the county apparently threatened owners along Hillside that it would condemn their property if they refused to sell portions of their land to the county.

After assurances from Cornell that Fratessa would have been able to build without a variance before the county acquired part of his land, the council voted unanimously to approve the variance, and the South San Francisco contingent stormed out of the room.

Elect Royer to Congress April 3

Frugal and efficient government is nothing new to Bill Royer. Long before this became a highly popular objective among political leaders, at the insistence of the electorate, Royer was working diligently and effectively toward this goal as a San Mateo County supervisor and as a municipal leader in Redwood City.

We believe that voters in the 11th Congressional District who will choose a successor to the late Leo Ryan at the April 3 election should send Royer to Washington to continue these efforts. His many years as an outstanding public official in this area have prepared him to be an effective representative of this district in the Congress.

Royer is no johnny-come-lately convert to fiscal responsibility. He has had the political fortitude, as a county supervisor, to back up his words with actions. His leadership in this respect has helped our county reduce management positions in government by almost 20 percent, and the overall governmental work force by more than 10 percent. It can be done, he points out, and now the federal government must do what local governments such as San Mateo County have done in boosting productivity and cutting costs. Only such a course will help relieve the twin burdens on the taxpayer of growing inflation and increased taxation.

First elected to the Board of Supervisors in 1972, Royer has consistently worked for a balanced approach to commercial and residential development, selective acquisition of parks and open space, an efficient transit system, and the best available health services at the least cost to the taxpayers.

Through his careful attention to citizen concerns and his sound approach to economical and efficient government, Royer has built a wide base of support among the voters of this area. This was demonstrated by his overwhelming re-election to the board in June 1976 when he topped all candidates on that year's ballot.

Royer was a founder of the San Mateo County Council of Mayors to upgrade the coordination of local government and help cut municipal costs. He also had a major role in establishing our countywide transit district, in engaging a private firm to manage Chope Community Hospital in order to save the taxpayers approximately $1 million a year, and in consolidating the Central and Southern Municipal Court districts to bring about other tax savings.

Prior to his election to the Board of Supervisors, Royer's impressive record of public service included 18 years in the positions of Redwood City mayor, vice mayor, councilman and planning commissioner. He has the background and the ability to become an outstanding representative in Congress, articulating the priorities and working for the specific concerns of San Mateo County.

The Times strongly recommends the election of Bill Royer to Congress in the 11th Congressional District on April 3.

Jeff kindergarten registration

The Jefferson Elementary School District will open kindergarten registration the week of April 2-6. To be eligible for kindergarten, the child must have been born on or before Dec. 2, 1974.

Parents can register children April 2 to 6 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. at the nearest elementary school. Proof of the child's birthdate and a record of the child's immunization for polio, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus must be brought to school by the parents for verification by school personnel.

Schools registering for kindergarten are Christopher Columbus, Colma Elementary, Daniel Webster, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Garden Village, George Washington, John F. Kennedy, Margaret Pauline Brown, Marjorie H. Tobias, Thomas Edison, Westlake and Woodrow Wilson.

Children's literature topic of workshop

Mrs. Virginia Tierney, president of the Daly City Friends of the Library, is hoping for an excellent turnout for Saturday's innovative workshop on Children's Literature.

The pilot program, sponsored by Friends of the Daly City Library, will feature panelists Robert Muller, librarian for the Jefferson Elementary School District, and Dr. Katherine Bishop, founder of the school of Elementary Education at the University of San Francisco and a noted specialist in Children's literature.

Invitations to attend the program, which will begin at 1 p.m. in the Westlake Club House, have been sent to all local school principals, PTA presidents, churches and private schools and it is hoped that many community members will take advantage of this unique opportunity to explore the wonderful world of literature.

Among the areas to be discussed during the afternoon will be "What is Children's Literature?", "How to Select Books to Meet Children's Needs" and "Exploration of the Values and Techniques of Reading to Children." Also planned is a mini-review of the children's books on display.

Plans for this event have been under the direction of Belva Carroll and Lois Mambert.

Sister Jo Ann Kozloski, O.P., will be the guest speaker at the April meeting of the Loyola Guild.

Mrs. Fred J. Perata, publicity chairperson, reports the April meeting will be in the University Center Lounge on the University of San Francisco campus. The advisory meeting will begin at 1 p.m., with the general meeting, featuring Sister Jo Ann's talk to "Stress Management" to begin at 1:45 p.m. The agenda contains time for the nominating committee to make its report and for the election of new officers.

Books on art of studying

By SAMUEL CHANDLER

Long ago, at the very dawn of time, a sage from Babylon observed that the reward for study is understanding. While no one objects to the seer's premise, many wise men have agreed with Francis Bacon who warned, "to spend too much time in studies is death."

To study means to apply the mind, or as Webster's Dictionary says, "to fix the mind closely upon a subject; to ponder; to meditate." To study requires skill. This fact caused Shakespeare to write that knowledge cannot be gained by "saucy looks" or even by "continual prodders."

Studying is an active process. "You do not learn effectively by sitting on the sidelines; you must be involved," writes Jerold W. Apps, "and participating in what it is you are trying to learn."

This is the theme of Dr. Apps' new book, "Study Skills for Those Adults Returning to School" (McGraw, $4.95). Apps' book is useful to far more adults than those who are going back school, however. It is a lesson on how to apply the mind when hard thinking is necessary.

Each of the nine chapters in "Study Skills" is an essay on a principle involved in studying. Chapter two discusses the art of listening and taking notes. It could easily be entitled how to pay attention. Of special note in chapter two is a section devoted to when it is wise to use a tape recorder instead of taking notes.

In chapter three, Apps writes, "One of the most common errors made by students and by other readers as well, is that they read all material the same way. They assume that there is only one purpose for reading." He then isolates four purposes for reading: to get information, to understand, to criticize and to create. "A reader must first decide what the purpose is when reading any material and how the material is to be read."

Sam Chandler

From there Dr. Apps suggests it is necessary to adjust one's reading speed to the purpose and type of material. The key, he says, "is not reading faster, but learning when to read fast and when to read more slowly and deliberately." To help his readers determine their reading skills Dr. Apps lists six factors to be considered. He also lists at least six basic techniques to be considered by the adult who needs to become an active reader.

Surely "Study Skills" is a book that many adult readers should consult over and over.

A similar book, yet a treatment on a different subject, is "Improving Your Competitive Position" by Schrello Associates, Inc. (Long Beach, $2.95). Although it is a small paperback, it is packed full of worthwhile information addressed to businessmen.

The seven chapters in the book grew out of a product evaluation and planning seminar that concluded that the best business decisions come from careful analysis of such factors as "What's your market?", "Who's the competition?", where are your best sources of competitive information, and "What are your competitive strengths?"

"Improving Your Competitive Position" comes from people who have had broad experience in the world of business evaluation.

Talk with Giammona

By STEVE KAUFMAN

If you were wondering why your son or daughter suddenly arrived home early last Monday, don't be alarmed. There was a district-wide teachers' workshop and students were released at 12:20 so teachers could have time to themselves to work on the problems confronting them in school. I hope a lot was accomplished.

With today's rising costs of a college education, the need for scholarship services is becoming even more so important. Westmoor has a complete and up-to-date scholarship service in the counselor's hallway. Posted almost daily are descriptions of various scholarships. There are certain scholarships for nationality, financial situation and type of vocation. Each varies, so check with the counselor's secretary, Helen Montanes, or go through the scholarship files for more information.

ONE OF THE RECENT NEWS EVENTS IN Daly City was the election of a new mayor and mayor protem. The latter is long-time Westmoor physical education teacher, Anthony Giammona. I talked to him for a while to get his views on politics, its interaction in school and his general feelings about his duties. What I came up with was an interesting picture of a man dedicated to the service of others — a man Westmoor is very proud to have.

"My main reason for getting involved in politics was to get a swimming pool installed at Westmoor. It was something the community as well as the students needed and I decided to try and make it a reality."

Giammona has been a teacher at Westmoor since its opening in 1956 but has served in the Jefferson Union High School District since 1952 — a total of 27 years helping students.

"In all of my years as a politician (the last 12 to be exact) I have never found my duties, views or attitudes to interfere with school. If anything, it has given me a whole new, and different outlook on life than just a teacher can get. It gives teaching a new dimension and a new perspective. In my life, I'm a teacher first, a politician second."

Although he makes his political career sound modest, it is far from that. Giammona has served as mayor of Daly City in 1973-74 and 1976-77, dealing with the ever-increasing problems of a growing and expanding city.

When asked if there was ever one outstanding event or issue he was faced with, he replied, "They all were important. Lots of things happened that all demanded a decision — parks, recreation, libraries, etc. Each was just as important as the other. Together, they make up the vital issues of a city."

Giammona's initial dream was finally realized when the pool was finished in 1974. At this point, most would have stopped work and gone on to other things. Not Giammona. "Of course I was extremely happy that the pool was built. It made all of that hard work worth it. However, I realized that there were a lot of other problems in Daly City that needed taking care of and so I decided to continue on in my political career."

Giammona's son, Tom, is a sophomore at Westmoor. I asked him if Tom ever suffered any side effects of the political activities of his father. The silver-haired Councilman shook his head and a grin broke across his face. "To everyone here, he's just Tom, the son of a P.E. teacher. That's how everyone thinks of me here. I'm just Mr. Giammona, the basketball coach and P.E. teacher. Outside of Westmoor, I'm Mr. Giammona, the politician."

Giammona is up for re-election next year. If he is re-elected for another four-year term, he then has to be voted and elected mayor by the new City Council. "I'm like the assistant mayor now," he commented.

"Overall, I've enjoyed being both a politician and a teacher; its been a very good experience for me. I'm just glad people don't treat me differently just because I take an interest in our city's affairs." He paused for a second and then modestly added, "After 12 years, I just hope I've helped out some!"

Ramblings

I asked him if he was planning to retire from his political life in the near future. "I don't think so," he replied. "If I get elected for another term, it's going to be another four years. Who knows after that?"

It seems that Giammona is having too much fun to quit! As a student at Westmoor, I thank you for contributing your efforts as a teacher to the school; as a resident of Daly City, I thank you for your talents as a helpful and thoughtful councilman. Keep up the good work!

I would like to congratulate the entire Yearbook staff. Working dedicatedly for months on end, they met their final deadline and the entire book now is being printed. This book promised to be one of the best in Westmoor's history, with more than 64 pages in color, including a senior picture section. Thanks to Editor-in-Chief Angela Rizzo and her staff for their hard work.

Congratulations also to junior Sue Starin, who was chosen as a delegate to the American Legion Auxiliary's Girl's State, to be on the grounds of 'Sacramento State College. This week-long political workshop teaches young people about county, state, and local governments by allowing them to run for the various offices. Sue will go in the first part of the summer. Congratulations also to Anna Ho, who was chosen as an alternate.

In an effort to teach high students that driving is not a game, the school's Auto Safety Club showed the acclaimed film "Red Asphault" in the school's Little Theater last week. This film presents the not-so-glamorous side effects of driving. Although it is rather gruesome at parts, it attempts to get across one point — driving is a very serious business.

I hope all who saw the film were moved enough by it to get the message and become good, safe drivers. Also, thanks to the club for showing the film and trying to help the students at Westmoor become better drivers.

Scouts thank Rotary

The Daly City Girl Scout Association has thanked the Daly City Rotary Club for donating an electric lantern being used by Scout Sierra and day camps as well as by troops year-round.

The Rotary also presented the local troops with a gift certificate for camping equipment recently.

Leader recognition as part of the International Year of the Child will be part of the spring theme for the Daly City association. Year pins in increments of 5, 10, 15, 20, 3tc., years of service also will be presented.

Adults may count their years of membership as a Girl Scout in establishing their years. Senior Scouts and those registered in the 004 troop may elect to receive their pins from the local association.

Juniors in high school presently registered who joined as Brownies may receive a 10-year pin. Adults who joined in 1974 can receive a five-year pin; adults joining in 1969 receive a 10-year pin; adults joining in 1964 receive a 15-year pin; and adults joining in 1959 receive a 20-year pin.

Suddenly, dogs have begun fighting

Animal Forum

By DR. BARNETT, DVM

Question: We have two German shepherds and a beagle. One of the shepherds is spayed, the other one is younger and we have not had her taken care of yet. The beagle is a male. They all used to get along real well, but the two females really fight now and we have to keep them apart. Sandy has been in heat twice but the fighting didn't start until just recently. Do you think there is a chance of them getting over it? We are very fond of all three and can't stand to see them fight. Would muzzles be the answer? M. N.

Answer: In multi-dog households most fights occur at feeding time or if one dog feels that another is getting too much attention. You can control the feeding problem by giving them their food in different locations. Of course, affection should be distributed evenly, although some dogs, like children, require more affection than others.

Usually in a situation like this, one dog will be dominant and the other submissive. Perhaps one is challenging for dominance at this time. You should have Sandy spayed or you may have German shepherd-beagle crossed puppies. As I have said before, a course in obedience training can be beneficial to any dog. In this situation you would have better control of your dogs.

Question: We are driving to Baja California in May and were wondering about the restrictions at the border for pets. We have two Labradors who have their own special caged section in the back of our station wagon. We phoned the Mexican tourist office here, but they never returned our call. P. M.

Answer: It is my understanding that the requirements for transporting pets into Mexico are a rabies vaccination and health certificate not less than 30 days old. If you haven't had any luck with the Mexican tourist office, you might try calling the consulate.

Question: Do cats develop cataracts? I know dogs do. Our Persian seems to be getting a filmy substance in the inside corner of her left eye. B. G. H.

Answer: Cats can develop cataracts, but do so much less frequently than dogs.

County YWCA needs volunteers

Foster grandmothers, camp counselors, and program aides are some of the volunteer jobs available at the San Mateo county YWCA, 560 El Camino Real, San Bruno. Volunteers are needed to assist with special events and help in new programs.

Women who are interested in being foster grandmothers are needed to help with a new program designed to give young mothers free time so they can participate in community and group activities, take classes to learn new skills and to give them time for recreation.

The YWCA needs three camp counselors over 18 years of age to work during Easter and summer vacation at the YWCA day cap for boys and girls 9 through 12 years of age. Parents interested in enrolling their children in the day camp can sign up now at the YWCA.

Other volunteer openings are a coordinator to help plan programs for a new YWCA singles club for males and females over 21 years of age and a program aide to help form an arts and theater group for women interested in joining a group of women to attend afternoon and evening cultural events in San Mateo County.

All volunteers will be trained for these positions and will work in cooperation with YWCA staff members and other volunteers.

More information may be obtained on these positions and the activities and classes at the YWCA by calling 952-8500.

Crowns crown gem show

A gem-studded crown collection of gold, silver, and precious gems from all over the world will headline the exhibits at the International Gem Mineral and Jewelry Show in the Hall of Flowers at the San Mateo Fairgrounds April 6-9.

Two new crowns, the Crown of Africa and The Crown of the Mineral Kingdom, will be unveiled. Other crowns are Chicago's Watertower Crown, the Jade Crown, and two crowns which have been pictured on the covers of national magazines, the Crown of Brazil set with rare Brazilian gems, and the Bicentennial Tiara set with gems from all 50 states, including pink tourmaline and blue benitoite from California.

On the value of the collection, Herb Duke, president of Intergem, replied there is really no way to measure it. He points out that artist and master metalsmith Michael Schwartz worked on the Crown of Brazil for a year, and that jewel collectors made many trips to Brazil to get the right stones. Duke explains that crowns are of great interest to the public since they are symbols of enormous wealth and great power, but they are also a suitable way to show the gems, metals, and jewelry techniques of the world.

Besides the crowns, the show will have an exhibit from the Smithsonian Institution of important jewels of historical significance, ceremonial pieces presented to American heads of government by foreign rulers and heads of state. There also will be gem carvings, crystals, rough and cut gems, contemporary jewelry, creative metal work, and popular organic gems such as coral, pearls, and amber.

A full schedule of lectures is planned for the public, highlighted by "Diamonds in the National Collection" by Paul Desautels, curator of the Hall of Gems of the Smithsonian. June Zeitner, assistant editor of the Lapidary Journal, will lead a discussion group on the lapidary and gem hobby. Colin Curtis will head a panel on the "Pros and Cons of Gems for Investment."

The demonstration area will show the methods of gem cutting, polishing and carving, silversmithing and gem mining. Free gem identification and free jewelry cleaning add to this area. Important gem dealers, authors, curators, collectors and craftsmen from coast to coast will participate.

Sisterhood sets 'show and taste'

Congregation B'nai Israel will have a general meeting March 26 at 8 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Synagogue, 1575 Annie St., Daly City.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the selection of a nominating committee to choose officers of the Sisterhood for 1979-1980.

Another highlight will be a program of "Show and Taste." A new Sisterhood project, a cook book called "Kitchen Kapers," is complete and ready for distribution.

The recipes are from collections of members and friends and are international in flavor.

Proceeds from sales will be used to assist in the work of the Sisterhood of Congregation B'nai Israel.

For information or purchase, call Mina Bilick, 992-7464, or Renee Stehman, 589-6607.

FOR CHILDREN

The Friends of the Daly City Library, in cooperation with the Daly City Public Library, will present a reading and children's literature program Saturday from 1 to 2:30 p.m. in the Westlake Park Clubhouse, 145 Lake Merced Blvd. Making final plans here are Dr. Katherine Bishop, center, language arts consultant with Litton Industries; Robert Muller, left, supervisor of instructional media, Jefferson Elementary School District, and City Librarian Sam Chandler. The event is scheduled to impress on parents and others the importance of reading to children and to explore ways to increase enjoyment. Children's books from the library will be on display and mini-reviewed.

John's Place under ownership of Jerry

New owner of JOHN'S PLACE in downtown Burlingame is JERRY LYERLA, who has promised to retain the same friendly atmosphere of this long-time "working man's bar." Jerry plans to refurbish the "place" and introduce some new attractions. Breakfast, lunch and dinners will be served, and the bar is open full-time from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. seven days a week. Live country and western music and dancing on Sunday nights ... Fans and players of backgammon: JIM RAINE, general manager of the GROSVENOR AIRPORT INN, South San Francisco, announced that there is to be a Backgammon Tournament in the Brass Elephant Room every Friday, starting tonight. Open registration from 7 p.m. The tournament is under the direction of the Pacific Backgammon Assoc. ... REX BARNETT continues to attract Friday and Saturday night country and western fans to the swinging lounge of THE KING'S TABLE in Redwood City. Man-sized cocktails are just $1 ... Have you tried the Wednesday night special at TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT German and continental restaurant in Moss Beach? This family-style all-you-can-eat meal really has to be experienced to be believed. Only $4.29 ... Here's good news for steak lovers: PHIL LEHR has enlarged the elegant dining room at PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce STEAKERY, on the lower level of the S.F. Hilton Tower, for faster seating on extra-busy nights ... LEHR'S CABARET DISCO, one of San Francisco's most exciting dance spots, is available on Sunday, Monday and Thursday evenings for proms, company parties, receptions and dances. And the choice of music is yours — anything from the Bee Gees to Benny Goodman. Start your evening with a superb dinner in a garden in full bloom at the adjoining LEHR'S GREENHOUSE.

Scotty Campbell's casual refinement

Dinner guests come from miles around to enjoy the good food, with its imaginative presentation, at JIM SNIADECKI'S SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City. There is also an air of casual refinement and friendliness ... One of the delicacies offered at THE MOONRAKER in Rockaway Beach you don't often find prepared in this manner is Roast Rack of Lamb Kapama. A rack of lamb is cooked to your individual taste, carved at your table, served Boutiquitiere, with a special sauce (for two or more persons) ... Mr. and Mrs. Harry Krovitz (he's director of racing at Bay Meadows) were so impressed with the DONNA MARIE SHOW at SERRAMONTE JOE'S, Daly City, they've returned several times with friends ... Many who visit BAYHILL LOUNGE during the week for lunch also seek out this pop spot for dancing and socializing on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. The lively INDEED group holds forth from 9 p.m. Don't forget, the lounge is open on Sundays, too ... As vice-president (and president-elect) of the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce, ENRICO ROMANO of ROMANO'S Italian restaurant in Rockaway Beach, takes on many civic responsibilities, including being chairman of the general membership meetings. Next meeting is scheduled for April 12, and "Rico" is now working on program details and other arrangements.

John & Kathy's has live music 3 nights

The new entertainment policy at KATHY WIMSATT'S JOHN & KATHY'S PUB, South San Francisco, is making a big hit. There's live music for dancing in the bar-lounge on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights to a new rhythm duo ... The rust-colored fabric canopy with beige fringe which overhangs the cozy bar in L'AUBERGE French restaurant, Redwood City, adds to the intimate atmosphere of this French country innlike restaurant ... One of the specialties for which BEARDSLEY'S in Burlingame is so well known is Prime Ribs of Beef. It's slowly roasted in rock salt, carefully marinated in exotic herbs, and served a la carte or as a complete dinner. An 8-ounce or 12-ounce choice. Served from 5:30 p.m. ... Speaking of look-alikes: George Wolfe dropped by VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant for a drink in the lounge and a chat with Bartender "Milt," who he's known for over 30 years. "Give me the usual, ol' buddy," said genial George to the mixologist who was facing the backbar. When he turned around, to George's surprise, it wasn't Milt but a deadringer by the name of "Chuck." The next time you visit this San Mateo restaurant, step into the lounge — you may even see these two look-alikes tending bar side-by-side ... Platillos (one item dishes) are served with rice, beans, and corn tortillas at LA PINATA in downtown Burlingame ... LA BELLA PASTA RISTORANTE owners, GIL MARINO, DEAN BRITTNER and SALVATORE FAVA, celebrate the grand opening of their Italian restaurant, located in the Edgewater Place Shopping Center in Foster City, all through this week. Fava, who also owns the La Contadina restaurant in the North Beach area of San Francisco, brings his favorite Italian recipes to the new restaurant, which is open Tuesdays through Sundays and will also serve Sunday Brunch overlooking Foster City's lagoons. Facilities are available for private parties.

Barney's, So. Tahoe Nugget menus please

Much attention is given by the managements of BARNEY'S and the nearby SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET in South Lake Tahoe to quality and selection of food and beverages. Many of their patrons are drawn to the clubs simply to enjoy the top quality menu selections at almost incredibly low prices. Both restaurants are open 24 hours a day. A traditional feature for many years is the bountiful all-you-can-eat buffet at the South Tahoe Nugget, with many salads, specialties, and at least five entrees (Roast Baron is featured every day). The buffet is $3.95 and available from 11 a.m. to midnight. Check the menus for other specials for breakfast, lunch and dinner. Be sure to pick up some of those free "bonus coupons" at any of the several stops along the way from Vallejo onward, via Highways 80 and 50 ... To assure that every audience in the 80-seat Silver Dollar Room sees an equally well-costumed show, the dancers in "BORDELLO," the long-running revue at HAROLDS CLUB, maintain a constant vigil over their show wardrobes. "We,re too close to the audience to have obvious little things get through," explain Dancers JILL STEWART and DIANNE KAHN. "It's a good thing we can all sew," says JEANNE MARIE, lead dancer in the six-member cast. The multi-skilled troupe shows its stuff onstage nightly, except Mondays.

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

Decisions, decisions, says the comic strip character.

Put off making your diet decisions, and you'll often make non-diet decisions, especially when you're dieting in a restaurant. If you're a fledglihg dieter, here's a tip for you. You can have your diet and your restaurant fun. There's no way you'll succeed if you mope around the house thinking you can't go out for dinner.

Here's how to cope in a few easy steps.

1. Make a list of the restaurants you most often frequent plus the ones you'd like to visit.

2. Buy yourself some index cards.

3. Make up a card for each familiar restaurant. Make out two or three diet safe meals from the remembered menus.

4. Call the restaurants you'd like to try and say that your boss would like a menu. (If you're the boss, have your secretary do it.) Once you've seen the menu, make out a card accordingly. If you hesitate about calling, stop in at an off hour and ask to see the menu. People do it all the time.

5. Pre-pack your card into your purse before you leave the house. Once you're seated, take a refresher peek. Give your order. Relax. Enjoy.

Eating out in five steps. If you read me; and I hope you do, you know that I tell you to plan ahead. Plan ahead for your week's shopping. Plan ahead for your holiday seasons. Plan ahead for your family events. Plan ahead for restaurant eating. It's one of the simplest, most important tools a dieter can have — a plan.

So today, instead of a recipe, I'll share a few plans with you for restaurant eating.

At lunch:

For the main course, an omelet is always good. They come in pepper, mushroom, and cheese. If the menu says three eggs, leave one-third on the plate. You also might have a double shrimp cocktail, broiled fish, an open-faced cheese sandwich, cantaloupe and cottage cheese, or an individual tuna salad where you are served the contents of a small can of tuna, naked (which is a decent way to eat tuna, diet.) Have one slice of bread and fruit for dessert.

At dinner:

Rock lobster tail, lobster, or fish are luxury enough without butter. Give yourself plenty of vegetables like spinach, green beans, broccoli, asparagus, zucchini, and salads. Salad is fine — but beware the dressing. Carry your own or use just vinegar. Melon or berries in season.

If you're having friend in before going out to dinner, I'd love to send you my recipe for French Vegetable Dip. Send a large self-addressed envelope to me at The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116. Be sure to let us know which recipe you are asking for.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

"Potluck" suppers are a lot of fun, but can be tiring when you always see the same old thing. The next time you are invited to one, why not surprise the other guests with a creative casserole featuring salmon? This Baked Salmon Medley is very easy to make and has salmon to add a whole new dimension to that typical casserole.

Colorful mixed vegetables frozen in butter sauce, cream of celery soup, and egg noodles are blended with salmon make this delicious dish. Mayonnaise is added for extra creaminess and flavor.

Salmon is as convenient as any other canned meat or fish and contributes a flavor all its own. Your potluck will stand out among the others when you bring Baked Salmon Medley.

BAKED SALMON MEDLEY

1 10-ounce package mixed vegetables frozen in butter sauce
1 10-ounce or 10¾-ounce can cream of celery soup
½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
¼ cup milk
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
2 cups (4-ounces) egg noodles, cooked and drained
1 7¾-ounce can salmon, drained and flaked

Cook the vegetables according to package directions. In a 1½ quart casserole, combine the can cream of celery soup, half-cup mayonnaise, fourth-cup milk, fourth-cup grated Parmesan cheese and one teaspoon instant minced onion. Stir in the cooked vegetables, two cups cooked noodles and 7¾ ounces salmon; cover. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until hot. Serves 4 to 6.

Microwave directions: Assemble as above in a 1½ quart glass/ceramic casserole; cover. Microwave on high power 5 to 6 minutes, or until hot.

Note: I bought a large can (about 15 ounces) of salmon and reserved half for a cold salad.

Jones on what makes a great course

Le Pacini

Frank "Bow Tie" Walsh, the late, great sports promoter (he brought basketball to the Cow Palace after World War II), went to Russia in the middle of the Cold War 20 years ago to promote a basketball exchange program that never came off, but Frank returned with an important piece of information.

"If I knew anything about golf," he told me, "I'd return as soon as things warm between them and us and start building golf courses. There's not one course in the Soviet Union, but as soon as relations normalize between the United States and Russia, you know there are going to be American businessmen going there who are going to want to golf, because how many times can you watch the circus and the ballet?"

It's taken longer than Bow Tie might have envisioned, but if all goes well the Soviet Union will have its first golf course within the next three or four years — at the most, hopes Robert Trent Jones, Jr., the famous California golf architect who is serving as midwife to the project.

The idea for a golf course in Russia first was suggested in 1973 by Dr. Armand Hammer, the lively octogenarian who also happens to be chairman of the board of Occidental Petroleum, which does business with the Soviets.

"As Walsh suggested," says Jones, "Dr. Hammer was concerned that his people were getting tired of the circus and the ballet, and brought the idea of a golf course up to Leonid Brezhnev, who thought it was a great idea."

At that point Hammer hired Jones, who immediately went to Russia and scouted a piece of land in Nakibino, 32 kilometers outside of Moscow.

Although Jones since has been back with his equally famous father, with whom he will collaborate, the project has been in a sort of limbo because of Russian bureaucracy. For example, it took four years for the Russians to supply Jones with a map of the land.

"They just don't give out maps of their land," says Jones.

Meanwhile, Jones, who operates out of Palo Alto, won't be lacking for work, because he's one of the world's busiest golf architects.

It's one of the most demanding (and rare) professions in existence, but Jones makes it sound easy.

"The game (of golf) is made up basically of four elements, and the job of the golf course architect is to test the golfer against those four elements fairly.

"The length of the course tests the golfer's physical strength.

"The definition of the fairways and greens and their size determine accuracy.

"Hazards test the golfer's ability to recover from disaster.

"And the subtleties of the greens test the touch, the finesse.

"The test of a really great course is when, if you've played it just one time and you're a fairly good golfer, you can sit down after a round and remember each hole. And the reason you remember is because you had to survey the strategy, figure out how to beat each hole."

What's helped Jones become a great golf course architect perhaps as much as having learned the business from his father, is that he is a good golfer himself, which follows one of his precepts that "A good designer (of golf courses) should be a good player, because he will have played and will know what the ball can and cannot do."

If it hadn't been for a dropped fly ball in a sandlot baseball game when he was 14, Jones might never have made the contributions he has to the golf world.

"I'll never forget that day. The dropped fly cost us an important game, everybody on the team suffered because of my error. I was terribly embarrassed and upset, and I went home that day and told my father, who had never pressured me to play golf, I was going to quit baseball and take up golf, where I could make it or break it on my own without hurting others."

Jones made it well enough to become number one man on the Yale golf team and win several amateur tournaments, even though he seldom (relatively) gets the chance to play golf because of his full schedule.

He is guaranteed at least an occasional round — when he finishes one of his courses. He always plays the first round, usually before the grass is even in. Jones doesn't depend solely on his own judgement, though, as to whether or not a course is, literally, up to par. He invites pro friends, such as Johnny Miller, in to play a few holes before the courses open. He takes down their ideas and often incorporates them into the final layout.

Because I'm a frustrated, retired southpaw golfer, I asked Jones what I've always been dying to ask a golf architect. Is it really true that golf courses are built to favor righthanders?

"Well," replied Jones, "while I think that it's basically a myth that a lefty can't be a big winner, it is interesting to note that the first golf architect in the United States, a wealthy civil engineer named McDonald, built all the holes on his courses with dog-legs to the right because he had a bad slice.

"But don't condemn poor McDonald, because all golf architects, especially new ones, tend to build courses to suit their own games. The first one I did on my own was Silverado in Napa. I'm not a long hitter, but I'm accurate and I'm a good putter. Well, Silverado is a fairly short course, and puts a premium on accuracy and good putting.

"I once played Silverado, when it was new, with the club pro, Craig Williamson, against Harvie Ward and John Brodie. It was really an unfair match-up, on paper, because I was being out-driven by 30 yards, but we all ended up dead even.

"Ward, especially, had trouble with the greens, because they have a lot of contour in them.

"Ward said, 'You little squirt, you can't hit the ball beyond your own shadow, but you designed this course around your own game.'"

Basketball trivia: Rick Barry is the only college player ever to have been a national scoring champ and also finish in the top 10 in rebounding. He did it in 1965.

Few pro players have so dominated a statistical category as Houston's Moses Malone dominates NBA rebounders. The closest player to him in that stat is averaging almost five rebounds fewer per game.

Tom Abernethy averages only one turnover every 37 minutes with the Warriors. The NBA average is one in 11.

Stanford's Kimberly Belton finished 19th in the country (NCAA Division I) in field goal percentage, with a 61.9.

Fresno State finished third in the nation (Division I) in team defense, allowing only 58.3 points per game. They were behind Princeton (55.8) and Dartmouth (57.2).

NPL baseball roundup

They didn't know they had a no-hitter

"What? Yeah! No kidding? Hey, we no-hit them. Can you believe that?"

Terra Nova High baseball coach Marty Coil can be excused for acting surprised when informed that Tiger pitchers Rich Miller and Mel Graham combined to hurl a 2-0 no-hit victory over Westmoor Friday.

After all, the Rams did not lack for baserunners, nor opportunities to score.

In other North Peninsula League games, Oceana surprised South San Francisco 15-4, Serramonte edged Jefferson 4-3 and El Camino beat Half Moon Bay 12-1.

Twice Westmoor had runners in scoring position at third base, including a bases-loaded opportunity in the fifth inning thanks to a walk and two hit batsmen with the cleanup hitters coming up. But the hard-throwing Graham doused the rally, striking out Roger Homer and enticing Brian Barron to ground into a force play.

Sophomore lefthander Miller hurled the first four innings, striking out seven. But wildness and a high number of pitches provoked Coil to bring in TN's top pitcher, Graham. After hitting two batsmen, the burly Tiger retired the final eight Rams, including the last three in the seventh on strikeouts.

"I felt stronger today than I did Wednesday against Serramonte," Graham said. "We really didn't play all that well today, but we did pretty well defensively. I think a win like this against a good team like Westmoor will help when we play in the big games against El Camino and South City."

The Tigers, who are now 3-0 and tied for first place in the NPL with El Camino, ripped Westmoor for seven hits in the first three innings, but came away with only one run. Rich Belli's bases-loaded single staked TN to a 1-0 lead.

Greg Gomes singlehandedly tallied the Tigers' final run. The senior centerfielder walked, stole second base, advanced to third on a wild pitch and scored on another wild delivery.

El Camino's Brian Humphrey enjoyed a banner afternoon with four hits and three RBI's. The Colts, now 3-0 in NPL play, tagged 14 hits and got strong pitching from southpaw Mark Evans and right-hander Kevin Lehane.

Serramonte and Jefferson were tied at 3-3 after four and a half frames at Marchbanks Field, but the Regents won the battle between two winless teams by picking up a run in the last of the fifth.

With two outs, junior Mike Carella beat out an infield single, then copped second. Serramonte catcher Dana Ynostroza then got hold of a 2-1 fastball and cracked a double, scoring Carella for a 4-3 Regent edge.

With one down in the seventh, Jeff threatened when junior Louis Holt beat out a bunt-single. But Serramonte junior Steve Chester — who pitched brilliantly, recording 11 strikeouts while walking one Indian hitter — clinched the win by getting a pop-up and a groundout.

Oceana stunned South City by slamming 15 hits, four of them for extra bases. The Sharks scored five runs in the bottom of the first — and went on to score in every inning they came to bat.

South City got into trouble right away. Oceana had the bases loaded in the first and hit a ground ball to third; the Warriors' third-baseman threw the ball away at first, and three runs scored. The Sharks' Phil Raynal then cracked a two-run homer, making it 5-0.

Steve Schneck pitched well for Oceana, although he tired in the seventh and couldn't quite go the distance. Junior Tom Wetzel contributed three hits for the Sharks.

Tigers, Rams in victories

Terra Nova and Westmoor high schools, the North Peninsula League swim favorites, prepped for next Friday's showdown for the NPL title with wins in action Friday.

Westmoor edged Half Moon Bay 90-81, Terra Nova downed El Camino 112-39 and Oceana blitzed Jefferson 93-18.

The Rams are just 1-0 (having drawn a first round bye), but beat the other NPL contender, HMB. And Westmoor did it with diving. The Rams swept all three places there, led by Bruce Parker. That made the difference. Everything else was all but equal.

Bill Beedle was Westmoor's only double winner, and improved his fine time in the breast to 1:04.8, eighth best in the Central Coast Section. He won the IM in a life-best 2:15.4. MacMasters and Barramore were double winners for HMB.

Michiko Dawkins, Eric Edhammer, Lars Fuller and Dave Smith were all double winners for Oceana. The Tigers had no trouble with El Camino, but EC's Chuck Brabec won the 200 IM and 500 free in good times.

New Candlestick Park bus service

Opening of the San Francisco Giants baseball season at Candlestick Park will bring on something new for Peninsula fans this season — San Mateo County Transit District bus service from the Peninsula to all games, with weekend service to games from the North County Coastside.

The service was inaugurated for weekend games early last season, but became popular enough that the specials were running to every game by late season.

Giants Specials will leave the Stanford Shopping Center in Palo Alto and pick up fans at regular SamTrans stops along El Camino Real and the Redwood City Greyhound terminal north to Belmont, going then to Bayshore Freeway and to the ballpark.

For baseball aficionados further north, another special will leave the Hillsdale Shopping Center in San Mateo and pick up riders along El Camino and at the Burlingame Greyhound depot north to Highway 380 in San Bruno before swinging over the Bayshore for Candlestick.

Fridays, weekends and holidays, buses will run from the Linda Mar Shopping Center in Pacifica, gathering up fans at the Pacific Manor bus pad, Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City, and Buri Buri in South San Francisco.

Another bus will start at the Stonestown Shopping Center in San Francisco and pick up at Westlake Shopping Center, Serramonte Shopping Center and Buri Buri.

All runs are scheduled to arrive at Candlestick a half-hour before game time and leave 20 minutes after the games are over.

One-way fares from Palo Alto through Redwood City are $1; from San Carlos through San Mateo, 85 cents; from Burlingame through San Bruno, 70 cents; from Pacifica and Stonestown, $1, from Daly City, 85 cents; and from South San Francisco, 70 cents.

Don gymnasts beat SM

San Mateo High's Kris Kurtz, one of the county's top prep gymnasts, took the all-around honors Friday, but Aragon beat the Bearcats 105.1 to 96.5 in a Mid-Peninsula league meet Friday.

In the other MPL meet Mills beat Burlingame 82.5 to 43.8, and in a North Peninsula League meet South San Francisco edged Half Moon Bay 50-42.

Jaime Roberts and Lisa Highsmith both took firsts for Aragon. Kurtz grabbed the all-around mark with a 29.3 total.

Sally Palmer of Mills took the all-around title in her meet, winning the floor exercise and uneven bars. Peggy Lawson was a standout for Burlingame.

South City's Connie McCormack won the beam and vaulting events, while teammate Kim Campbell took honors in the floor exercise. Half Moon Bay's Colleen Donovan won the uneven bars.

MPL swim powers win

The top two Mid-Peninsula League swim powers each won in MPL meets Friday.

League-leading San Mateo crushed Crestmoor 85-44 and Hillsdale blasted Burlingame 103-53. San Mateo is now alone in first place with a 3-0 mark. Burlingame had been unbeaten and is now 2-1. Hillsdale is 1-1.

Tod Hill switched events and still came up a double winner, taking the IM and 100 free. Stewart Blunck clocked a good 59.9 in the back and Hillsdale went 1:49.0 in the medley relay. Also looking good was Michelle Mills, who won the 500 free in a fine 5:35.3.

San Mateo sent its frontliners home, and went with juniors and girls against the Falcons. Edward Kim was San Mateo's only double winner. Also logging wins for the Bearcats were David Maas, Kevin Star, Jimm Clawson and Lisa Roepke.

Pad nets edge St. Ignatius 4-3

Serra High's tennis team advanced its West Catholic Athletic League record to 3-1 with a narrow 4-3 win over visiting St. Ignatius Friday.

Mitch Strobin won the match for the Padres. With the scored tied 3-3, Strobin was still playing his fourth singles match. He finally came out on top, 4-6, 7-6, 6-3, in a three-hour match which featured two baseline players.

Serra nine stingy, but —

Serra High's baseball team gave up two unearned runs Friday and went on to lose a 3-0 West Catholic Athletic League decision to visiting St. Ignatius of San Francisco.

The Padres, who posted shutout victories in their first two WCAL outings before losing a 1-0 decision to host Bellarmine Thursday night, have given up a total of one earned run in their first four WCAL games — yet find themselves with a league record of 2-2.

Serra junior Marty Pletkin pitched well; the right-hander went the distance, recording three strikeouts and walking one Wildcat batter. But SI scored an unearned run in the first, then picked up another unearned tally in the fifth.

The Padres, now 8-5 overall this year, mounted their best offensive threat in the fifth. With two outs and two on, however, Serra's Greg Funk went down on strikes.

Serra travels to Mountain View for a pivotal game against St. Francis Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

In a close contest of top singles players, Caroline Leonard of El Camino defeated South SF's Shelia Sammon 11-8, 11-9. Leonard ran her season record to 2-0.

El Camino has shut out both opponents so far this campaign.

Public education faces 'pentagon of blame'

Perspective

By ARVILLE FINACOM

Before the California State Senate Education Committee voted in favor of the public education finance-oriented Dills Bill, SB234, a member of that committee, Sen. Jerry Smith of Santa Clara, described public education people as trapped in a "pentagon of blame," the five sides of the figure being the legislature, parents, teachers, administrators and school boards. Smith challenged those on each of the sides to quit "sniping away at each other" and instead present a unified front to re-sell the general public on the intrinsically American idea of "free, public education for all."

Judging from the questions asked the comments made following his speech, many in the audience were antagonized highly by Smith's stand; however, his remarks were completely in tune with the theme for the early March conference, "Public Education: Is There a Future?" co-sponsored by the Californa Coalition for Fair School Finance and the Junior League of Oakland/East Bay.

The statewide Coalition, with headquarters at 661 Live Oak Ave., Menlo Park, is composed of the League of Women Voters of California, the California State Division of American Association of University Women and the California State PTA.

Organized in 1976 following the Serrano decision and passage of Assembly Bill 65 to "create a public knowledgeable in issues of school finance," it was designed to dissolve in June, 1978. However, the passage of Proposition 13 brought a school finance picture to California which called for continued objective interpretation. As a result, sponsoring groups voted to continue the Coalition. Current funding comes from interim grants from the California Council for the Humanities in Public Policy and the Ford Foundation. Contributions from the general public to the non-profit group are both welcome and tax deductible.

Along with Smith, the all-day conference featured a number of educators as well as TV Education Services Director David Crippens from public broadcasting station KCET-TV in Los Angeles. Crippens' comments focused on his understanding of the public's perception of education, which he claims in many cases is "not fact, only what people think is going on in the schools." He said, "Increasingly, education is seen in terms of poor test scores, social upheaval caused by busing, declining enrollment, increasing costs and increased demands upon schools to cure societal ills."

Crippens acknowledged that the passage of Proposition 13 last June brought the education "industry," which employs 5 percent of the state's total work force and spends 42 percent of the state's budget, "under more rigorous scrutiny by all sectors of society." If the public is the shareholder, the student, the consumer and the bottom line is whether the consumer can read, write and compute on a socially acceptable level, then Crippens sees as a valid public perception the question, "Why does education cost so much with so little to show in return?"

The public also, according to Crippens, is asking why the schools have become the "ultimate socializer." The public sees educational innovations across the last 20 years not leading to increased student achievement, even though they may have resulted in raising student self-esteem. Outside the education industry, however, society still demands success to be judged in terms of measurable objective results. Another perception voiced by Crippens deals with the unwieldy nature of today's public education, "forced to be all things to all people."

In looking toward the 1980s, Crippens sees public education becoming increasingly a statewide, rather than a local, political issue, one which will involve not only dollars for education but also educational philosophy, policy and measures of performance. In Crippens' view, the day is past when voters simply accept public education as a necessity. One reason for this is that parents with children in schools are an increasing minority of voters. If public education is to survive, Crippens advocates, its leaders must form coalitions with groups not previously considered as pro public education, including the growing number of retired citizens as well as the leaders of business and industry.

Although he feels the public education "cottage industry" (as Gov. Jerry Brown calls it) is "headed for hard times" with a "budget shake-out a year or two away," Crippens, speaking as one who has taught school, sees the situation as far from negative. Viewed as a challenge, its diversity celebrated and enhanced, the parents of its school age "consumers" re-introduced to its many strengths, its programs and processes revamped, revitalized and placed in step with media and electronic advancement, public education can survive and prosper.

James Catterall, from the Center for Research on Education at Stanford University, presented the pros and cons of a voucher system for education, calling it an idea "whose time may have come" by asking, "Who doesn't want more to say in where quality education is dispensed?" Catterall cautioned those present, however, to study carefully the "Family Choice Education Initiative" petitions soon to be in statewide circulation commenting, somewhat facetiously, that a statewide voucher plan for education could lead to a 1984 scenario for schools in which a directory might list the "Andover/Watts Model," "The Jack-in-the-Box (drop-off-your-homework-as-you-head-for-the-beach) Drive Through School," "Expensive Private Schools", "Good New Schools" (for 5 percent of the population) and "The Public Schools of Last Resort."

In serious terms, Catterall warned that a voucher system could result in the loss of the socializing emphasis of American schools, could infer increased state mandating of program, and also could deny any chance for "quality" by restricting both funds and opportunity for innovation.

I suppose few would disagree that public education in the United States, especially in California, is at the most desperate crossroads it ever has faced. The double session days of the early 1950s, with their burgeoning school age populations, scarce funds and too few credentialled teachers seem, in retrospect, halcyon days to educators who worked through them, for during those years there was general public commitment to the idea of free public education for all, education designed to provide a true "forum for community."

As another conference speaker, John P. Crossley, Jr., associate professor of religion and ethics at University of Southern California, put it at the close of his lengthy overview of the history of public education, "The public school system is just about the only institution in America that is capable of providing a forum for the common good. The question is how important we think that forum is."

Here are some helps reduce

... remember all supermarkets are not the

KEY BUYS

Many manufacturer's give supermarkets a temporary promotional allowance to help stimulate sales on certain items. We call them "Key Buys" and they represent these temporary promotional allowances or exceptional purchases, and normally carry a lower price than our already low everyday price. The big difference is that Lucky passes these savings on to its customers!

Single Item Pricing

How often have you gone into a supermarket to buy a can of peas and found the price was, for example, 3 cans for 89¢. This is called multiple pricing, a device to get you to buy more cans. Lucky has one price per item throughout the store. This means less confusion for the shopper, more accuracy at the checkstand. You always know exactly what each item will cost . no more mental arithmetic.

Recently, several music students at Serramonte High School participated in the CMEA solo-ensemble music festival, where students sang or performed on their instruments for a written rating and an evaluation. Congratulations to all Serramonte students who participated.

Receiving Good or Excellent ratings were June Lara, Rosie Axiak, Gina Hom and Genny Hom. Receiving Superior ratings were Liz McNeil, Leslie McNeil, Jason Hurd, Curtis Dennison, Anne Hardey nd Cathy Hardey. Receiving a Command Performance, the highest attainable award for their trio, were Jason Hurd, Leslie McNeil, and Jamie Duag.

Seniors: If you are of Swiss descent or are a Swiss national, there is a scholarship available. Also, the Sons of Italy in America is offering scholarships to students of Italian descent. If you are interested in any of these scholarships, contact Mrs. Haun for more details.

The junior and senior classes recently sponsored a very successful dance, with Alvin John Waples the disc jockey. Everyone who went had a great time. The money received from the dance will go toward the Junior-Senior Prom, to be at the Dunfey Hotel May 18.

Multi-Ethnic day will be April 26 during lunch. Any group or club that would like to reserve and sponsor a booth on this day should contact Mr. McClanahan or Mr. Morosi. There is limited space available for booths, so it's first come, first served.

Student body elections will be today during first period. Good luck to all candidates.

Congratulations to Leslie McNeil, who recently was selected to represent Serramonte High School at the Girls State convention. Leslie is very active at Serramonte. She is Commissioner of Elections, a member of the concert band, on the school planning council, PTSA member, and belongs to many clubs. Leslie will go to Sacramento State University for a week with 500 other girls from all over California. At Girls State she will learn about government and how it works.

Darryl Jackson, who has played outstandingly on Jeff's varsity basketball team for the last three years, was named Student of the Month. For Jackson this will be another award to add to his collection. He has been named MVP of the NPL, MVP of San Mateo County, All American, all league in the Sequoia tournament, McDonald's All American, and countless others.

He also has been recognized at colleges all over the country and will, with no doubt, continue his basketball career.

Last Friday's dance was a big success. Sponsored by the juniors and DJ'd by Dr. Funk, the dance was considered by many students to be the best of the year. The juniors cleared $500 profit and will be selling Easter Flowergrams as their next fund-raiser.

Jeff's annual 50's rally was off to a great start March 16 after second period, as the Pep Staff, supported by the band, did its traditional victory routine. First on the agenda was the freshman class doing an amusing skit to the song "Beauty School Dropout," from the movie "Grease." The varsity cheerleaders and pom-pons danced their way through "Jail House Rock." Singer Janet Moore followed, entertaining students by singing the theme song from "Grease," and another singer, Michelle Velez, sand "Hopelessly Devoted to You." Next, sophomores and juniors boogied their way through "Duke of Earl," "Please Dear," and "Let's Go to the Hop."

To bring back some more of the old 1950 memories, there was a Sha Na Na group. Consisting of spirited seniors, the greased-haired singers sang some of the old melodies such as "Tears on my Pillow," "Rock'n Roll is Here to Stay," and "Teenage Love."

Following were the JV cheerleaders and pom-pons who had a swinging time dancing to "Rock Around the Clock." To promote more spirit, Rally Commissioner Terri Garon also had a "Spell Out Contest" in which each class spelled out "JEFFERSON," and the rowdiest and most spirited class won spirit points.

Joining Jeff's 50s rally was Oceana High School's student body officers and pep staff.

The rally, on the whole, was a success and brought back some of the great memories of the swinging 50s.

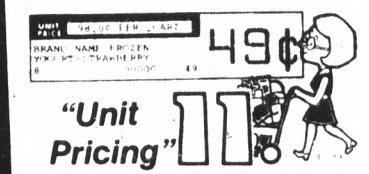
INFLATION FIGHTING ideas



"Unit Pricing"

Unit pricing, according to the United States Office of Consumer Affairs, is one of the most useful tools available to shoppers for comparing prices and determining the most economical buy. Safeway, recognizing the benefits to customers, was one of the first chains to introduce unit pricing.

In Safeway, shelf labels show the price of an item and, breaking the price down into a basic unit, also show the price per pound, quart, ounce or other even unit of measure.

We have done the arithmetic for you. All you need to do is compare the Unit Price of brands of the same product to help determine the most economical brand and size.

together, we can be INFLATION FIGHTERS!

Board needs member

Seven cities and San Mateo County soon will be working together though a new citizens advisory board on libraries.

The new eight-member advisory board is required to be set up under state law — the California Library Services Act of 1977 — which provided additional funding to community libraries.

Chairman Fred Lyon of the Board of Supervisors has announced recruitment for a single public member to represent the county library system.

Deadline for application is March 31 and applications are available at the office of the Board of Supervisors, Hall of Justice, Redwood City, or by calling 364-5600, ext. 4567.

The seven cities who also will be making appointments to the new advisory board are San Mateo, Redwood City, Daly City, Menlo Park, Burlingame, San Bruno, and South San Francisco.

Applicants to represent the county should be residents of either the unincorporated area or of cities other than these seven.

Purpose of the new law is to encourage interlibrary use statewide and to encourage cooperation of local branches and university libraries, Community Services Director George Riley said.

San Mateo County has participated in a cooperative library system since December 1974. The new law requires that a library advisory board be set up for each such cooperative system.

Purpose of the citizens advisory board is to review and evaluate programs and to assist members of the PLS Board of Directors.

The 1977 Act makes provisions for representation of segments of the population who are not traditionally served by branch libraries such as residents who are geographically isolated, non-English speaking, shut-in, handicapped, institutionalized, or members of financial and industrial groups.
